PRES. JOHN RESIGNS

HEAD OF DE PAUW UNIVERSITY WILL LEAVE THE INSTITUTION.

differences of Opinion on Educational Methods Cause Him to Take the Step.

The resignation of Rev. John P. D. John, president of DePauw University, was yeserday accepted at a meeting of the board of trustees at the Meridian-street M. E. Church. The board received the resignation on the day before, but kept it from publicity in the hope that it would be withdrawn. The reason given for the resignation is a difference of opinion between Dr. John and some of the members of the board as to the methods of instruction. The board and the president discussed the situation for two days in the hope that there could be found some common ground of educational doctrine on which both sides on the particular subject might stand. It is not given out in what the differences lie, but it is said that the president and the board separate on the best of terms, each charitably extending to the other the right of belief and a thorough honesty of purpose and sincerity of belief.

"The kindliest feelings prevail on each side," said Dr. John, yesterday, in discussing the subject. The following is the official statement from the board regarding "At a meeting of the trustees of DePauw niversity, held in Indianapolis on the 4th ult., Dr. J. P. D. John resigned the presidency, to take effect Sept. 1. He entered the university in 1882 as professor of mathematics. In 1885 he was elected vice president, to succeed Dr. John Clark Ridpath, resigned, and in 1889 he became president, having succeeded Dr. Alexander Martin, who resigned that year. Dr. John has, therefore, completed thirteen years of continuous service in the university, six of which were in the presidency. The board accepted his resignation this morning. The reason for the resignation is a candid difference of view between the president and the board respecting the educational policy of the university. "President John, at the beginning of his administration, outlined his policy in his inaugural address, and has had during his entire term the support of a majority of the board in the execution of his plans. He introduced, as far as practicable, the methods and curriculum of what is known as the new education. Many of the board at the present time are not entirely in sympathy ith his views, which are very decided, and by mutual agreement the relationship has been dissolved. The feeling between President John and the board is most cordial, and he retires of his own motion with hearty good will toward the trustees and the university. His successor will probably be elected at the June meeting of the

In a brief interview, yesterday afternoon, Dr. John said: "Within the last five or ten years there has been almost a revolution in educational methods and spirit. The chie points of difference between the old and new education is the flexibility of the curriculum and the methods of instruction. in the curriculum the elective system pre-In the curriculum the elective system pre-dominates, while in the methods of instruc-tion the library and laboratory have sup-plied the old text-book methods. This sys-tem has been in operation in DePauw Uni-versity during all of my administration and it is interesting to note that in the college of liberal arts, where these methods have been employed, there has been a steady increase in the attendance of students. The attendance in the college this year is almost 10 per cent. in advance of last year, and, with the exception of the year just preceding the present panic, is the largest n the history of the university. A great dea! of attention has been paid to advanced work and, as a result our graduates have been singularly successful in securing fellowships in the great universities. This year we have five fellows in the Chicago University, which is a greater number than any other American college has in that university. I wanted full sweep in the execu-tion of plans in harmony with these new principles of education, but some members of the board took a different view. I have plans for the future, but cannot make them public at this time.

A friend of the institution says that Dr. John is known as a man of a high degree of learning, who realizes that there is no essential conflict between religion and known truth and that there necessarily cannot be. "This basis of speculation," gentleman said, "had made Dr. John bolder than the more strict orthodox minds in control of the university and had caused him to entertain ideas of truth that the board of trustees could not, as an entire body, coincide with. Some of the directors became alarmed at the breadth of view which the president of the university disclosed. The cause of difference was not peculiar to the religious air of the institution, but to the method of general teaching, and there is no specific charge of heresy."

Dr. John will remain with the institution until Sept. 1. His successor will be selected at the June meeting of the board, which will be held at the college during comnencement week. One of the trustees, in speaking of the resignation of Dr. John yesterday, said: "I am sure it was a great surprise to us much so that we have not yet had time to think of a probable successor. There is nowever, plenty of time to think of that Dr. John will stay with the institution until September, and we will not elect his successor until June. In the interim there is time enough for many things to happen. Some of us have hopes that the Doctor will reconsider his action. I am satisfied that he has an exaggerated idea of the number of trustees that were against him. I don't believe that many members of the board wanted to take issue with him on is course of instruction. It is now understood that DePauw University despairs of securing Dr. Sims as hancellor. The statement was made yesterday that Dr. Sims, hearing of the resignation of the president, agreed to recall his letter of declination if Dr. John would reconsider his resignation. The latter delined to do so. It has been understood by the board all along that Dr. Sims would take the chancellorship on the assurance that Dr. John would continue as its president. Dr. Sims says that he will not consider a proposition looking toward the presidency of the institution. He thinks Dr. John a man well qualified for the place.

PATROLMAN THOMPSON DEAD.

After Six Years' Services He Dies of Consumption-The Funeral.

Patrolman Dan Thompson is dead. After long illness death came quietly yesterday afternoon at his home on Jefferson avenue. He was twenty-nine years old and leaves a widow and two children. The police force, of which Thompson has been a member for six years, loses one of its most valuable and efficient members. He came on the force with the benefit of a regular army experience. During his service in the army he saw service in the Southwest and took part in the Apache campaign. At that time he enjoyed perfect health, being as straight as an arrow, a tine horseman and an all-round athlete. About two years ago his health began to break, and a year ago the physicians said he was suffering with consumption. Thompson displayed a remarkable nerve and worked as a member of the force until a ew months ago, when he became bedfast. His fellow-officers have nursed and watched him in his sickness, and they will conduct the funeral, which will probably take place Sunday afternoon. Patrolman West mained with Thompson the night before he died. Toward morning Thompson awoke "I see the boys marching. Only a few hours and they will be marching to my funeral." It is recalled that on the night deneral Knefler has already signified his acceptance of the appointment. The new board will hold its first meeting this morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of organizing. It is not known yet what General Wallace will do. He has not yet communicated with Governor Matthews in regard to the matter, neither to signify his acceptance nor to decline the appointment.

Late yesterday afternoon General Wallace called at the Statehouse and was in consultation with the members of the appointing board for an hour or more. The conference was in regard to the provisions of the law and the powers that would be vested in the Board of Regents. He left the State-house last night without having signified his decision in regard to accepting the ap-pointment. He said he would attend the meeting of the new board to-day and would there give his final decision.

MORE ABOUT VIADUCTS

MAYOR DENNY TALKS ABOUT BRIDGING KENTUCKY AVENUE.

Vincennes Tracks to Be Removed and the Avenue Paved-Wynn and Hurty on Tomlinson Hall Smells.

City Attorney Scott, who is now in Martinsville, is expected in a week or so to make a report upon the question of the right of way now held by the Indianapolis & Vincennes railroad over Kentucky avenue. This report is desired so that the city officials may know just where the city stands both as to the power to require the track to be removed from the street and as to what can be done toward improving Kentucky avenue. The improvement desired is not only an asphalt or brick pavement, but a viaduct. Kentucky avenue is to have a viaduct and Mayor Denny said yesterday that he is anxious that the work should be begun as soon as possible. "The right of way over Kentucky avenue," he said, "is one of the worst pieces of legislation that the city Council ever enacted. The contract is probably pretty firmly in favor of the railroad company, but perhaps some means may be found by mutual concession whereby the company may consent to abandon this route and use the Vandalia tracks. Both these lines, it will be recalled, are under lease to the Pennsylvania system, and there is absolutely no reason why they should use both tracks. When that track shall have been taken up the street can be paved, and the difficulties of a viaduct will have been greatly diminished. It will large, but also to West Indianapolis, which apolis if it were not for the tracks that keep them apart. Kentucky avenue is the worst street, perhaps, in the city for traffic, and it is my desire that it be paved, and it may become expedient to pave half of it until this railroad question can be settled." Mayor Denny wants to see the viaduct over the East Washington-street crossings built as soon as possible. There are few buildings that would be damaged, and those that now stand in along the street and which would be affected are of such a character that the damages would be low. Some action toward viaducts is ex-

Tomlinson Hall Smells.

City Sanitarian Wynn and J. N. Hurty, city chemist, yesterday filed with the Board of Public Works a report on the stenches that disgrace Tomlinson Hall. These are due, the officials say, to the water closets in the basement and on the second floor, which are denounced as exceedingly crude in construction and wholly fail of sanitary requirements. The water supply, they say, is wholly inadequate. They suggest that the closets are in an unsightly and public place, and should be removed to the third floor, leaving the lower rooms for lavatory and dressing room purposes. The objections in the letter to the existing sanitary arrangements are crudeness construction, bad smells, insufficient flushing, stinted ventilation, bad plumbing, unfortunate location, publicity, impossible to keep clean or free from odors. The report is a sweeping indictment against the closets and incidentally the plans on which the hall was built as to sanitary accom-

Lee's Views on Russe.

Deputy Marketmaster Lee was one of the many citizens of Commissioner Russe's district who was assured by Russe in making the campaign for election three years ago that if elected he, Russe, would not join the Frenzel clique in the School Board. "His first vote," said Mr. Lee yesterday, "was cast directly as he had promised that he would not, and every vote since has been exactly as the Frenzel people wanted He deceived a large number of voters the district. He cannot be trusted to keep his campaign pledges. In that cam-paign Otto Frenzel tried to help him out, but the effect was such that Otto was not allowed to come into the disrict more than two or three times. The people began to press Russe so close with questions that he made these promises to oppose the Frenzel people at every point, and then he went

The Public Official.

The Public Official is the title of a new Indianapolis monthly. As announced on the cover it is devoted to the interests of county, township and municipal officers, and the contents of the first number into them. A summary of laws relating to township trustees, a review of the new road laws and a discussion of fee and salary matters are among the features of interest. The legal department, which is conducted by Mr. Albert J. "WATER THE ROPES!"

Audacions Command That Brought Fame to the Bresen Family.

Rome Letter to Baltimore Sun. A certain Sig. Bresca, from Bordighiera on the Cornice road, in northern Italy came to Rome a few days previous to Palm Sunday with palms for the Vatican. This is the continuance of a very ancient custom, which arose out of the following circumstances: It was the 10th of September, 1586. Pope

Sixtus V was the pontiff, a man of marvelous energy and unwearying activity, whose life reads like a romance, as he rose from the lowest class of society to be Pope of Rome. Eight hundred workmen, under the direction of the architect Domenico Fontana, were on this day engaged in erecting upon the great square in front of St. Peter's Church the granite monolith obelisk which had been brought from Egypt by the Roman Emperor Caligula over 1,500 years before. The operation was as difficult as it was new to the Romans of the sixteenth century. Pope Sixtus, who presided over the great task, had imposed, under the severest penalties, a rigorous silence on the vast crowd which filled the square. At a certain moment the ropes, too dry and too much strained, ceased to answer to the turns of the windlasses, and one important one broke. There was an anxious hush in the crowd. "Aqua alle corde," (water the ropes) suddenly was heard resounding amidst the silence. The architect at once took the hint: water was applied to the ropes and the huge and weighty obelisk, which had been suspended in the air, descended slowly to

The daring man who had braved the papal prohibition, and who looked forward to nothing less than death for his rashiess, was a sailor from Bordighiera named Bresca. The Pope, instead of punishing him, asked him what reward he would have in recompense for his timely exclamation. Bresca asked that his family might be allowed to supply the Vatican with the nalms used at the service on Palm Sunday. This was accorded to him and his descendants. It was one of these descendants who was received last week in audience by Leo XIII And who that has ever traveled along the Cornice can cease to remember Bordighiera, surrounding and surrounded by its innumerable palm trees? They are the prevailing feature of the place. They lean against the garden walls, wrote the late J. Addington ymonds, and feather the wells outside the town where women come with brazen pitchers to draw water. In some of the marshy tangles of the plain they spring from a thick undergrowth of spiky leaves and rear their tall, aerial arms the deep blue background of the sea or darker purple of the distant hills. White pigeons fiy about among their branches, and the air is loud with cooings and with rustlings, and the hoarser croaking of in-

OF EX-GOVERNOR CHASE WILL BE LAID AWAY.

Final Arrangements for the Funera Completed-Body Will Lie in State This Morning.

The body of ex-Governor Chase arrived at the Union Station at 11:20 o'clock last night. The remains came directly from Maine, accompanied by Rev. Harry Minnick, pastor of the Christian Church of that place, where the ex-Governor was taken ill and died while conducting a revival. At the Union Station Col. I. N. Walker, Dr. D. R. Lucas and a committee from the G. A. R. were waiting to receive the body of their comrade and friend, which was taken in charge by undertaker C. T. Whitsett. The box in which the casket was inclosed was wrapped in a large American flag, and inside the folds of this banner the body was born to the Whitsett establishment on Del-

On opening the box it was found that the glass in the lid of the casket had been shattered. The first work for the undertaker was to repair this damage. It is thought the glass must have been broken in transferring the remains from one train to another during the long trip. At first it was feared that this accident might have caused the decomposition of the body, but upon examination it was found that the body was in a fairly good condition. Mr Whitsett said last night that the body would lie in state to-day. The casket will be hermetically sealed, so that people may view the face of the ex-Governor without fear of the disease which caused his death At 8 o'clock this morning the family of the x-Governor will spend a short time at the Whitsett chapel before the body is removed to the Statehous The flag on the Statehouse will fly at half mast to-day. There has been some wonder why the flag has not already been displayed. Custodian Griffin says it is the custom to lower the flag in cases where men of distinction die out of the State at the time the body crosses the line on its way home. Consequently the flag was lowered last night. The interior of the Statehouse was draped last evening by the custodian and his assistants. The body will lie in state to-day until 1 o'clock under the large dome of the Statehouse. The corridors are hung with flags and black and decorated in much the same manner as they were mean a great deal not only to the city at | while the body of ex-Governor Gray was removed from the morgue of Charles Whit sett to the Statehouse at 8:30 this morning All members of the G. Ransdell, W. W. Dougherty, N. J. McGinnis and W. E. Shilling, aids. E. Merrifield, commander Thomas Post, is assigned to command of the first division of G. A. R. and other veterans. A. D. Miller, commander Anderson Post, is assigned to the command of the second division. The staff will report, mounted, at the corner of Washington street and Capitol avenue, at 12:30 p. m.' There was some doubt last evening about the commander-in-chief of the G. A. being present. There are a number well-known G. A. R. men expected to be present, however. The members of the Northern Indiana Ministerial Association, which has been in session at Frankfort, will probably attend the funeral in a body.

The ministers of the churches of the city and State have been invited to attend, and many, no doubt, will do so. Members of the G. A. R. have purchased a lot in Crown Hill Cemetery as a last resting place for the body of their dead comrade. This lot is in a beautiful location, near that of the grave of Thomas A. Hendricks. The services at the church will not be extended and those at the grave will be brief. The following men have been selected by the family to act as pallbearers, and they will report at 12:45 p. m. to Mr. Whitsett, at the Statehouse: Rev. H. S. Earl and Rev. J. W. Carven, of the Christian ministers; Col. N. R. Ruckle and Joseph W. Smith, of the Scottish Rite Masons, and I. N. Walker and Gen. R. S. Foster, The order of exercises at the church will e as follows: Hymn, "Come, Ye Disconsolate," by the hoir; reading twenty-third Psalm, by Rev. A. L. Orcutt, pastor of the Christian Church, Danville; prayer by the Rev. A. Brewer, Danville; hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," choir; addresses by Capt. A. M. Atkinson, Rev. Harry Minnick, L. L.

Carpenter and D. R. Lucas. As a Sunday-School Worker.

At the quarterly meeting of the Indiana 'hristian Sunday-school board, held in Irvngton, May 13, a committee was appointed to express the sense of the board in respect to the death of Governor Chase, who was an concred member of the board. The report of the committee was as follows: "In the sudden and unexpected death of Brother Ira J. Chase, who was an earnest and faithful Sunday-school worker, and memper of this board, we feel that we, as well as the church at large, have sustained a great and almost inconsolable loss, and we lesire to put on record our esteem for him as a man, a citizen and a faithful preacher of the gospel. Through a comparatively ong life of active labor in the service of the State and church, he endeared himself to all classes and parties by his high social qualities, his generous sentiment toward all and his faithfulness to all public trusts. We also desire to express to his beloved wife and children our deep sympathy in this hour of their overwhelming calamity and bereavement, praying that the divine omfort and support may be given to them."

It was ordered that the resolutions be offered to the city and denominational press. The committee consisted of A. R. Benton and H. T. Mann.

Preachers Adjourn. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FRANKFORT, Ind., May 15 .- The Northern Indiana Ministerial Association of the Christian Church, which met here yesterday for a three-day session, voted to adjourn to-night in order that its members might attend the funeral of the late Gov. Chase. There were seventy ministers in attendance, and all of them will assemble at the Denison House in Indianapolis tomorrow at 12.30 o'clock and march to the Statehouse to view the remains. This evening the body held memorial exercises at the First Christian Church, at which a number of ministers paid tribute to the work and worth of their departed brother. Goshen was selected as the place of the association meeting next year.

Thirteen Counties Settle.

The following counties made their May settlements with the State yesterday: Clinton county paid in $34.193.40 and drew out for schools, $17,171.91. Henry county, $33,-557.34; schools, $16,753.31. Wayne county, $52,677.30; schools, $26,026.33. Brown county. $4,140.09; schools, $1,986.24. Whitley county, $23,113.26; schools, $11,003.75. Noble county, $31,519.65; schools, $15,551.47. Bartholomew county, $30,309.11; schools, $14,576.28. Rush county, $30,826,98; schools, $14,392.30. Grant 42,831.42; schools, $20,488.14. Jo $24,301.46; schools, $11,602.06. 1 county, $24,965.05; schools, $12,215.22. Fayette county, $18,492.30; schools, $9,061.34. Hendricks county. $29,889.02; schools, $14,729.35. This makes twenty-five counties that have settled with the State Treasurer, leaving sixty-seven delinquent counties. The entire sixty-seven are not all delinquent, because the State Auditor has a dozen or more settlement sheets in his office which have been sent in by the county treasurers, accompa-nied by checks, but which the force in Auditor Daily's office has not had time to verify. They will be verified to-day and credited as settled on time.

FOR MIXED SCHOOLS

COLORED CITIZENS DENOUNCE THE "IMMORTAL FORTY-THREE."

Recent Petition to the School Board Does Not Represent the Colored People's Sentiment.

Dr. S. A. Elbert presided at a mass meeting of colored citizens at the Second Baptist Church last night. The recent petition presented to the School Board by fortythree colored men asking that colored children be sent to colored teachers, provoked the outpouring. The church was crowded and considerable feeling was manifested. Speeches were made by a number of those present in which the action of the "immortal forty-three" as the petitioners were called, was denounced. By a unanimous vote resolutions were passed protesting against the attempt to separate the schools. A letter was read from N. M. Hill, one of the men who had signed the petition, in which he declared that he had been deceived. He said that he did not read the petition, but understood it was a remonstrance against the discharge from service of colored teachers. Two or three others were present who had signed the petition sent to the School Board. Speeches were made by Benjamin Thornton, R. B. Bagby and others. The resolu-tions, framed by Allison Sweeney, James Thomas, Thomas Smith, Joseph Broyles, A. Manning and G. L. Knox were as fol-

"Whereas, It is a matter of current knowledge and official record that at the last meeting of the Board of School Commissioners for the city of Indianapolis there was presented for the consideration of that honorable body a petition duly drawn up and signed by Thomas Durham, Parker Warfield, Isaac Griffin, John T. Williams, Mr. Watkins and thirty-eight others, asking that colored teachers continue to be employed in the public schools, supplemented with the statement that colored pupils should attend the schools taught by colored teachers; the same being further supplemented with the declaration that they, the petitioners, represented the wishes of nine-tenths of the colored taxpayers and citizens of Indianapolis; and,

"Whereas As it is plain, and cannot be disputed, that the originator, or originators, of the petition, and signers of the same, acted without the knowledge, consent, advice or approval of the colored taxpavers and citizens of Indianapolis; therefore, be it "Resolved, By the colored taxpavers and citizens of Indianapolis; in mass meeting ascitizens of Indianapolis in mass meeting as sembled, in response to a diligently circulated call, that we publicly and emphatically repudiate and disown any previous knowledge of, or present sympathy with, or indorsement of, the motives, aims and designs of the man or men, person or persons colored or white, or both, who were directly and in the first instance responsible for said petition, its subsequent circulation for signers and final presentation to the Indianapo-lis Board of School Commissioners; it being further understood this repudiation upon the part of the colored citizens and taxpayers of Indianapolis, in mass meeting assembled, is meant to, and it is intended, it shall attach to the signers of said petition also, with the exception of the members who have publicly declared, had they understood, that the plea that the colored teachers were to he ren oved from the schools was a man-ufactured falsehood to secure their signa-tures, they, under no circumstances, would have attached their names. "Resolved. That we view with shame, and will remember with lasting humiliation, that of the twelve thousand colored citizens of Indianapolis, more or less, there were found even so few as forty-three who were so lost to race pride, so unworthy the man-tle of American citizenship, so reckless of the few rights they enjoy at best-rights that cost so dear in sorrow and blood-that they would publicly pray for an abridge-ment of the same, and that their own children be wronged, by asking that they be compelled to suffer certain indignities, be robbed of certain privileges, not because is necessary, not because it is just, is custom or law, but because of the color of their skin, for which they and their God are alone responsible.

"Resolved, (speaking calmly, dispassionately, but earnestly, realizing it is little by little the liberties of a people are lost). That such rights as we have within the law, not as colored people, but American citizens, we shall at all times firmly and respectfully contend for them, and, not stopping there, will not be content until every right enjoyed ty every other citizen is freely granted and happily enjoyed by us. We realize, of privileges and rights, we have not one to sell, barter, give away, or be robbed of, but many yet to obtain, in pursuit of which we ask

Electric Road Will Climb the Jungfrau, Which Is 13,720 Feet High.

New York World. Some day it will be possible to go anywhere in the Alps without climbing. Switzerland was once a country which gave much trouble to railroad engineers, but its mountains are now getting covered or honeycombed with lines as thoroughly as any smoother land. The latest development in rapid transit in Switzerland is a proposal to build an electric railroad up the Jungfrau, one of the highest of the Swiss Alps. Fifty years ago, when France, England and America were already supplied with railroads, George Stephenson went to Switzerland to study the difficult problem of building them in that country. It was only possible then to construct railroads over a small portion of the republic.

others, which ascend by means of cogwheels gripping to a center rail. have been built, but up to the present steam or hydraulic power has always been used. The railway of the Righi has been re garded as the most efficient and successful of these. The motive power is steam, and the cars ascend on a system of interlocking wheels, which is a valuable guarantee against accidents. Among the drawback of the system are the amount of smoke and dirt produced by the engines and the considerable weight of coal and water which must be carried by them.

Under the new electric system dirt and smoke are banished and the weight of the engines are greatly reduced. The electricity

power and the superiority of one or the other is a question not yet settled. The pioneer electric mountain railway was constructed on Mount Saleve, in Gene va. This has served largely for a model fo the very ambitious project of an electrical railway leading brough a range of mountains to the summit of Jungfrau. The railway will start at Scheidegg, and after a short course above ground it "will pass through the interior of the Eiger, Moniche and Jungfrau. The passengers change cars in the last peak, and reach the summit by means of an elevator. The road is more than eight miles long, and rises to a height of 6,890 feet. The gradient varies from 1 to 26 per cent. The elevator in the cone is 216 feet high. The height of the Jungfrau is 13,720 feet. The new railroad, of course, starts at high level. The name of the mountain, th German word for maiden, was originally given either on account of the dazzlins whiteness and purity of the snow or of the belief that no traveler had ever ascended to its highest point. Its summit was first reached in 1811, and since the great development of Alpine climbing many have been there. The departure station is in the open air but the remaining six are cut in the solid The various peaks preceding the Jungfrau can be reached by paths. The stations will contain restaurants and small bedrooms for the benefit of those who wish to ascend the mountains by sunrise or explore them for an indefinite time. The stations and the tunnel will all be lighted by electricity, and frequent communication with the world below will be possible by telegraph and telephone. The elevator in the cone will rise through straight tube, and is to be worked by a hydraulic motor deriving its power from the waters of Lake Luchinen.

He Moved.

Chicago Post. The quick-witted conductor and the finical dude were both on an Ogden-avenue trailer to a Madison-street cable train. The longcoated dude was occupying more than his fair share of room, and as the car filled up the conductor undertook to secure room for another passenger. "Move up there, gent," he said.

But the dude objected to the abbreviated term applied to him.

"I say, I'm no 'gent' " he protested.
"Move up a little, lady," responded the
